2) Your Therapist: You are entitled to receive information from your therapist about the methods of therapy, the techniques used, the duration of therapy (if known), and the fee structure. You can seek a second opinion from another therapist or terminate therapy at any time.

In a professional relationship, sexual intimacy is never appropriate and should be reported to the board that licenses, registers, or certifies the licensee, registrant or certificate holder.

3) Goal Setting: You have the right to and are strongly encouraged to participate in the process of selecting an appropriate treatment approach and setting treatment goals.

4) Record-Keeping: In order to provide the best healthcare, your therapist is legally required to keep a record of your attendance and services. Currently, mental health professionals are required to maintain client records for a period of seven years from the date of termination of therapy. In addition, any complaint filed with the Division of Professions and Occupations in the Department of Regulatory Agencies (DORA) against a mental health professional alleging a maintenance of records violation must be made within seven years after the former client discovered or reasonably should have discovered the violation. The applicable board in the Division of Professions and Occupations must either take disciplinary action on the complaint or dismiss the complaint within two years. For more information, please see House Bill 17-1011 Statute of Limitation Discipline Mental Health Professional.

5) Confidentiality: Generally speaking, the information provided by and to clients during therapy sessions is legally confidential and cannot be released without the client's or responsible party's written consent. There are exceptions to this confidentiality, some of which are listed in section 12-43-218 of the Colorado Revised Statutes as well as other exceptions in Colorado and Federal law. For example, mental health professionals are required to report suspected child abuse or imminent lethal risk to oneself or an identified party to authorities. If a legal exception arises during therapy, if feasible, you will be informed accordingly. The Mental Health Practice Act (CRS 12-43-101, et seq.) is available at: <http://www.dora.state.co.us/mental-health/Statute.pdf>.

When I am out of town or otherwise unavailable, I will typically have another therapist on call for me. If necessary, I reserve the right to disclose confidential information from your record, including personally identifiable information, to this on-call therapist to facilitate the coverage of your care in my absence.

Please be aware that my primary phone number is a cell phone. Although it is a very rare occurrence, cellular calls and text messages can sometimes be intercepted by third parties. Please also note there are confidentiality risks with any correspondence via electronic communication (email), although an encrypted, HIPAA-compliant email is available at this time. Please let me know if you have concerns regarding this and alternative arrangements will be made.

I understand the risks to confidentiality in the use of current technologies for communication, and prefer to use to following communication channels:

7) Financial: Currently, the fee for a typical 50 minute therapy session is $150.00, although a reduced fee may be negotiated in cases of significant financial need. Sessions that are extended by more than ten minutes and other clinical services will be charged on a prorated basis (in 15-minute increments). Payment is expected at the time of the service. Cash, checks, or credit cards will be accepted. If you choose to use checks, please note there will be a $40 returned check fee in the event of insufficient funds, and sessions will be discontinued until the matter is resolved. Accounts that are 30 days past due will be sent to a collection agency, with enough personal information disclosed to collect the debt.

By signing this document, you are agreeing to pay for the services rendered and any additional expenses that may be accrued in collecting said fees.

8) Cancellations/Missed Appointments: If you are unable to attend a scheduled appointment, 24 hours notice is required. A missed appointment without 24 hour notification will be charged a full session rate. Two consecutive no-show appointments will result in forfeiture of your reserved appointment time. Please note that four missed appointments, with or without appropriate notification, will result in case closure (unless a prior arrangement has been agreed upon) and will require a re-opening process to begin again at the provider's discretion.

9) Emergencies: My practice does not have the capability to respond immediately to counseling emergencies. True emergencies should be directed to the community emergency services (911). Established clients with an urgent need to make contact may contact me via cellular phone, but an immediate response is not guaranteed. A quick or immediate response in one situation does not constitute a commitment of rapid response in another situation. I attempt to return phone calls within the same day if left during office hours or within a 24/48 hour period.

I have read the preceding information, and I understand my rights as a client or as the client's responsible party. By signing I understand I am also consenting to treatment.
